TO COUNT ALL
RATS IN U. S.

Public Health Service Undertakes to Get Census of Rodent Population.

Uncle Sam yesterday undertook the job of counting all the rats in the United States. Not only will the census of rodents be taken as accurately as it is possible to do it, but steps will be taken to get a fairly close estimate of the amount of damage that is wrought by rodents each year.

Surg. Gen. Blue, of the Public Health Service, yesterday addressed an open invitation to all persons who know anything about rats to write to him and tell him all they know. Whether the information covers rats in private houses, stores, factories, or public buildings will make no difference. It will all be welcomed. Housewives who are annoyed by the pest are invited to write to the surgeon general whatever information they have, and they will be assured of a respectful answer. The most interesting information gathered in on the subject will be made public at once.

The rat investigation is undertaken entirely for the purpose of ascertaining how great a factor the rat is in economic waste. Secretary of the Treasury Mac-Veagh believes for the purpose of conserving domestic and business resources the rat should be wiped out. In a letter to Mr. Blue, asking that the inquiry be undertaken, the Secretary says that "the extermination of the rat is unquestionably advocated from the viewpoint of economy, from the viewpoint of public health, and from the viewpoint of common decency."

WORLD'S GREAT
BUSINESS MEN
VIEW CAPITAL

idea, as he was not feeling over-strong, but he would not listen to us and said he was never as happy as when shaking hands with his fellow-men. The party disbanded, and I, with a number of others, returned to the exposition with the President. We went directly to the viewing stand, and I can remember, just as plainly as if it all happened yesterday, every incident that followed.

"There was a great cheer as the President mounted to the stand and he bowed to the crowd. My little boy, a Washington Post, then eleven years old, stood by my side in the stand, and the President came over and patted him on the cheek.
"How are you, my little man?" he asked.
"Would you like to shake hands with me?" He asked the boy about Peru and how he liked Buffalo, and seemed to be in his happiest mood. Meanwhile the line had formed and thousands were waiting to shake hands with the President.

Heard Shot Fired.

"It seemed only a few minutes later, as I was at the other end of the stand, when I heard a shot, and some one cried, 'My God, the President's shot.' I saw the President fall backward. A man with a handkerchief around his hand was struggling furiously in the crowd below the stand. All was confusion. Cries of 'Kill him! Kill him!' which I learned afterward were directed against the assassin, filled that it was I thought the whole world was setting around the stand.
"For a moment I was dazed. Then I saw that it would be useless to try to get to the President's side and I rushed for medical aid. I remembered that a few minutes before Dr. Rixey, the Surgeon General of the navy, had left us at the dairy exhibit and I rushed there.
The crowd, however, was too great and I jumped into a carriage occupied by Mrs. Joseph Miller Horton, of Buffalo.
We were driven to the nearest building, where I got a telephone. I was connected with the dairy exhibit and fortunately succeeded in getting Dr.
Rixey to the phone immediately. I told him of the assassination and he flew at once to the scene. I think he was the first doctor of the President and he took charge of the stricken Executive.

"When President McKinley hovered so long between life and death, the newspapers said that it was I thought the whole President's life, but you see, did only what any other man, under the same circumstances, would have done. Please don't call me a hero. If you want to say something, just say that I am gladly to be back in Buffalo, that I am greatly impressed with the marvelous growth of the city, especially in the business district, and as for the residence section, there is none better in the country."

Go to Philadelphia Next.

Senator Pezet is a representative of the Chamber of Commerce of Peru and the Lima Stock Exchange.

The smoothness with which the big jaunt of the world's business men has gone forward, is due to the forthright and executive ability of John F. Davis, Robert J. Bottomly, and John F. O'Connell, of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. They with others of the Boston trade body are with the delegates, looking for every detail of the trip. They have done their work so well that there is only unstinted praise from all the members of the party.

When the tourists leave Washington they will go to Philadelphia for a day or two and be entertained in New York just before the departure of their vessels for Europe. It was said last night that about one-third of the party would remain in Washington until Wednesday or Thursday, and go directly from here to New York. It is planned in New York to entertain the party in sections by the trade bodies representing the various nationalities. First, the Italian Chamber of Commerce in that city will give a dinner to the Italian members, and other nationalities will vie with the sons of Italy to give welcome to their countrymen.

The programme of festivities here in Washington begins this morning with an automobile ride around the city, visiting points of interest. To-morrow afternoon the party will be taken to Mount Vernon, and to-morrow night a reception will be held in their honor at the Pan-American Building.

OUTING OF FRIENDS SCHOOL.

With the entire corps of teachers, pupils, and quite a few parents of pupils participating in an all-day outing, the country club and playground of the Friends School, in Wisconsin Avenue Northwest, was formerly opened yesterday for the school term of 1912-13. The playground had been in use ever since the school opened a couple of weeks ago, but this was the first general gathering of both grown-ups and children, and the plan announced by Thomas W. Sid-well, principal of the school, contemplates a series of just such week-end picnics for the children—primarily as counter attractions to the matinees and other indoor diversions.

A baseball game between two teams, one composed of girls and the other of boys, was the principal attraction yesterday. The boys being handicapped by being required to bat and throw with their left hands. But even then the boys put up such an overwhelming number of runs that the official scorekeeper almost lost count. All five tennis courts were in use morning and afternoon, and quite a few of the pupils were practicing for the school tennis tournament which is in prospect later in the term.
At the noon hour all of the children and guests surrounded Mrs. Sidwell and a group of the teachers who served a picnic luncheon.

PLANS COMPLETE
FOR CELEBRATION

Knights of Columbus to Observe Columbus Day with Exercises at Poli's Theater.

Plans have been completed for an elaborate celebration of Columbus Day by the Washington Knights of Columbus, various civic societies, and the general public. The celebration will take place to-night at the Poli Theater, the management having tendered the use of the house to the committee having the affair in charge. A musical and literary programme has been arranged of sufficient variety to interest all.

Columbus Day is October 12, as it was on that date in 1492 that Columbus sighted land in his famous voyage of discovery to the new world. The day is a legal holiday in thirty-two States, and is generally observed in all parts of the nation. It was thought by the local committee that the best form of celebration would be a public meeting on Sunday evening, and with that in view this evening's entertainment has been planned.
Invitations have been extended to the aristocratic delegate, Mgr. Bonanno, and the members of his official household, as well as also to the members of the reverend clergy of the District. The committee in charge of the details of the celebration comprise the chairman of the chapter, and the five grand knights of the council, William P. Normoyle, chairman; Dr. Joseph A. Mudd, Charles W. Darr, William J. McGee, Richard A.

Eufemio, and George F. McAvoy. A reception committee of twenty-five members under direction of Redmond De Vaney, State warden, will have charge of the details at the theater.

The exercises will commence at 8:30 o'clock with orchestral selections by Caldwell's Orchestra. Edward P. Harrington, State deputy of the Knights of Columbus for the District of Columbia, will preside and make the opening address. Hon.
Cuno H. Rudolph, president of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia; Hon. John Barrett, the director general of the Pan-American Union, and the Rev. Charles Warren Currier, who is noted as authority on the subject of the Spanish colonization on this continent, will deliver addresses appropriate to the occasion. The musical portion of the programme will comprise selections by Caldwell's Orchestra; by a quartet composed of Messrs. Frank Warner, Raymond Tompkins, R. Edward Hall, and Edson B. Browne, and the following solists—William Chabough, Philip Lee Scan-ling, and Glenn W. Ashley.
